

[EXTRACT]

GLOBAL: Round-the-clock security advice

06-01-2009 9:43:01 GMT

Users of the Thuraya international satellite phone service can now have round-the-clock access to worldwide security advice and assistance, thanks to a new partnership between red24 and Geonix Tracking.

The ThurayaAssist service is available on subscription to all Thuraya handset users.

Using Geonix's tracking service, red24's security expertise can be tailored to the precise location where the call originates.

David Bland, Chief Executive of Geonix Tracking, said: 'We have been delighted by the success and user acceptance of the original ThurayaLocate service, which was recently designated in the top five new technologies available to aid agencies worldwide.

'The new service, developed in conjunction with red24 in response to user feedback, enables us to provide a comprehensive answer to the security needs of the Thuraya customer base.'

red24 offers an extensive range of corporate security risk management services.

Lee Niblett, Head of Corporate Intelligence for red24, will be writing about the issue of maritime piracy in the forthcoming February/March issue of Cargo Security International. In order to reserve your copy of the magazine, please contact Elena Melis (Tel: +44 1295 81 44 55; email: elena@petrospot.com).

Click here to access the full text of an official statement issued by red24 regarding the ThurayaAssist service.

END

Source: Cargo Security International website (06 January 2009)
<http://www.cargosecurityinternational.com/>